Standard home struck by tornado

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A tornado which struck the L. J. Breaux home in the White Cypress Community Monday evening knocked walls down and removed a portion of the roof but no one was injured.

It is hard not to question why only one house in an area is the only one touched by a tornado, Breaux said Tuesday as he surveyed the damage in the house.

"But we are very thankful for the Lord's mercy in keeping us from being hurt," he added.

"We can always rebuild the house," Breaux said.

Mr. and Mrs. Breaux were sitting in the den of their three-bedroom brick home watching television when the tornado struck Monday evening.

"The house was built real tight and very well insulated, we could hardly even hear the rain," he said. Clocks in the house stopped at 6:45 p.m.

Mrs. Breaux heard noise just seconds before the tornado hit the house and stood up. She was pinned to the floor by a couch which was moved when a section of the front wall gave way.

"Louis told me to get down on the floor but I was already down there," she said.

"The tornado struck so fast there was no time for us to do anything, it just hit and then was gone," he said.

After the tornado passed Mr. Breaux had to lift a section of the wall which collapsed to move the couch and free his wife from the debris.

Mrs. Breaux said she was holding the front door closed to keep out the rain when her husband told her it wouldn't do any good because the roof was gone.

In addition to the house, two vehicles parked under the garage next to the house also were damaged.

One car was totaled and another damaged. A truck parked in the yard was also damaged by flying debris.

Two power poles near the house were snapped.

"It was unbelievable how fast Coast Electric crews and trucks were here after the tornado struck," Breaux said.

"They were some of the first ones here and had power restored in the area in less than four hours," he added.

torn off in the storm. Trees and utility poles near his home were also broken. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

CLEANUP—Friends and relatives of the L. J. Breaux family help load furniture and personal belongings onto a trailer to take to storage Tuesday from their house which was damaged Monday by a tornado. A few trees, a barn

Perniciaro to finish term, board to name successor

By DENA BISNETTE

A federal judge has agreed to allow Hancock County Beat Four Supervisor Sam J. Perniciaro Sr. to serve the remainder of his current term, leaving appointment of a temporary successor to a mostly new board.

Perniciaro, 64, of Bay St. Louis, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in Jackson Monday to mail fraud and extortion charges involving receipt of a $500 kickback and a set of tires for a personal vehicle from Holman Equipment Company and a $100 kickback from Davis Chemical.

The July indictment, one of 48 so far in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Operation Pretense," contained nine charges including bribery. It alleged that the supervisor had arranged the purchase of a pothole patching machine in exchange for the Holman kickback.

Perniciaro was unavailable for comment Wednesday and referred questions to his attorneys, Joe Sam

Owen and Albert Necaise, both of Gulfport.

According to Owen, Perniciaro has agreed to cooperate with federal officials in a continuing investigation of the Hancock County supervisors.

No date has been set for sentencing pending the outcome of the investigation, the attorney added.

Perniciaro must resign on Jan. 4, the day his current term expires. The decision was reportedly based on the fact that only one other supervisor, Roger Dale Ladner of Beat Three, has been reelected and the court felt it would be most fair to allow the new board to pick Perniciaro's successor.

Perniciaro had been reelected by a landslide first primary vote to what would have been his fourth term.

Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk said he had anticipated the possibility of a special election Monday when he heard that Perniciaro had changed his earlier plea.

He said he spoke with a deputy secretary of state to confirm the procedure for replacing a supervisor.

The temporary appointee would serve only until November 1988. Under state law, a special election can not be conducted until November unless the governor requests that it be earlier.

Gottschalk said he does not anticipate gubernatorial intervention in the Perniciaro replacement.

The last time that a special election was moved up in Hancock County was when J.P. Compretta, then state representative, resigned to take a position with the district attorney's office.

A special election was called in December because the legislature was scheduled to begin session in January, and Walter James Phillips, who recently retired, was elected, Gottschalk stated.

The special election will be held the same day as a presidential election, which should insure a good turnout, the commissioner added.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said he feels allowing Perniciaro to finish his term was "the fairest thing to do."

"I don't see where the old board should be involved in the appointment. I for one wouldn't be serving with the person," said Courge, who was defeated for the Beat One post by Robert Peterson.

He said he felt Perniciaro is being treated differently because he has only about six weeks to go in his term, and added that he had heard that most indicted supervisors pleading guilty were given only 10 days to resign.

He also commented that the board's policy in the past has been to appoint someone who would not run, with the exception of cases involving death.

Ronald Cuevas, who took over as Beat Two supervisor early when his predecessor, A.A. Kellar, resigned a day after being defeated in the elec-

Bustetter wins runoff election

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Carol Bustetter of Diamondhead was elected to represent District 3 of the Hancock County School Board Tuesday in a runoff election.

Bustetter received 1,240 or approximately 61 percent of the 2,031 votes cast in the 19 precincts according to unofficial results reported by Charles Gottschalk, secretary of the Hancock County Election Commission.

Billy Joe Ladner of Necaise Crossing received 791 votes.

Bustetter, 49, is a former teacher at Gulfview Elementary School and has a total of 27 years of teaching experience.

She has also served as kindergarten resource coordinator in Jefferson Parish, La.

She received a bachelor's degree from Dominican College and master's and reading specialist degrees from the University of New Orleans and Montessori degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, N.J.

Although the election is for a representative from District 3, the election was held at large and cost the county $5,000, according to Gottschalk.

He said this is required because of a decision by a federal judge 20 years ago.

"Hancock County is the only county I know of which follows these ridiculous and expensive guidelines to elect school board members," Gottschalk said.

He also said officials were discussing steps to change these procedures.

The election determined Bustetter will serve the unexpired portion of former board member Tommy Shaw, who resigned earlier this year.

Wayne King of Dedeaux was appointed by the current school board members to serve an interim appointment on the board until the election was conducted.

Bustetter's term will expire at the end of 1988.

The election commission will meet tonight, Nov. 19 at 5 p.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse to certify the election results.

Gottschalk said the maximum amount the unofficial tally will be off is only three votes.

Seven affidavits were cast in the election and two of these were by Waveland residents and two were by voters who registered to vote in the election.

The remaining votes will be opened Thursday night.

Hearing set on industry zoning issue

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council is expected to hear from the public Tuesday, Dec. 8 on a proposed special use zoning district requested by Bay Technical Associates.

The council scheduled the public hearing to begin at 7:30 p.m. in city hall after receiving a petition Tuesday night from area residents regarding a recommendation for approval of the special use zoning request by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

City Clerk Edward Favre said the petition requires the city to schedule a public hearing before the city council even though there has already been one before the planning and zoning commission.

The special use zoning is requested to allow construction of a technical park on Bay Tech property bordered by St. Charles Street, Old Spanish Trail, L&N Railroad Tracks and two land lots zoned.

The land currently encompasses three residential zoning categories.

Charles R. Ramsey, president of Bay Technical Associates, said he believes allowing the construction of the park will be good for Bay St. Louis as it allows for expansion of Bay Tech.

CATFISH HOUSE BURNS—Kire "Junior" Mitchell looks over the damage to the Silver Creek Catfish House which was partially destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The kitchen area, main dining room and an apartment were destroyed but a newer section of the building suffered only smoke and heat damage. Mitchell said he heard crackling and only had time to get out of the building with his pants. He also said the annual Senior Citizens Thanksgiving Dinner set for next week is going to be rescheduled not cancelled. Mitchell said he will rebuild if possible but there was no insurance on the building. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Coast Electric cited for safety practices

Coast Electric Power Association has been awarded a Certificate of Excellence from the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) in Washington, D.C. for outstanding safety practices.

NRECA, the service organization for the nation's 1,000 rural electric cooperatives, presents this award through its National Safety Accreditation Program.

Robert Occhi, general manager of Coast Electric, said, "In order to earn this distinction, our safety procedure, employee training programs and total operational standards were carefully scrutinized by a team of observers and experts from the electric utility industry. These individuals used a safety checklist to rate over 160 specific areas relating to our job performance standards, training practices and safety measures."

The safety audit rating was reviewed by the National Safety Accreditation Committee, who selects and makes the award only to those rural electric systems that maintain the highest level of safety standards and employee awareness.

"We're proud to again earn this national recognition," stated Occhi. "At Coast Electric, safety is an integral part of our operation. Our

Everybody's Science

A modern Johnny Appleseed

In the spirit of Johnny Appleseed, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist is giving away apple trees across the country.

John Chapman (Appleseed's real name) traveled throughout the Midwest in the 19th century, giving away or selling seedlings.

Now, 150 years later, Dr. Richard H. Zimmerman has given away nearly 1,000 apple trees to scientists in 10 states and two Canadian provinces. He hasn't done it on foot, like Chapman, though; he's had some help from delivery companies.

And Zimmerman doesn't distribute his young trees to get new orchard tree nurseries going, which was Chapman's ultimate goal. He does it to see how his experimental trees will fare in different soils and climates.

He needs to know because he grew them from tissue culture—a biotechnology technique that nurseries might use to multiply a specific tree twice as fast as through grafting, the method they use now. Zimmerman is with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Beltsville, Md.

Tissue culture goes like this: shoot tips of apple trees are grown in a bottle of agar, a gelatin-like substance, along with mineral salts, sugar, vitamins and plant growth hormones.

One shoot grows four more, each of which is removed to start the cycle again. All shoots are then rooted, with the eventual result being hundreds of tiny trees with identical heredity.

Because cultured trees spend their first few months in a laboratory, a shoot that is originally disease-free is sure to yield disease-free trees, at least until they are planted outside, Zimmerman said.

"We need a few more years to see if these trees will be true to their variety, winter hardy, disease-resistant and, of course, fruitful," he said.

Scientists who have received his trees report to him on their progress.

Zimmerman also watches his own Beltsville orchard of 1,500 apple trees with about 20 varieties, including Stayman, Red and Golden Delicious, Rome, Jonathan and McIntosh.

When results are in, he will be able to recommend to industry how best to use tissue culture to propagate apple trees. "This technique is a distinct possibility for orchards of the 21st century," Zimmerman said. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Quotables by CUEVAS

Today has been designated by the officials of Bay St. Louis and Waveland as the Great American Smokeout Day.

There are many of us ex- and non-smokers who have trouble with cigarette smoke.

The American Cancer Society has for years been telling smokers about the serious health problems caused by the habit.

One of the ways a non-smoker can help with the Smokeout is to adopt a smoker for the day and try to help them refrain from smoking.

I have to admire a person who is a smoker and gives the habit up for a 24-hour period.

It is tough to stop smoking as I have been through the process some 20 years ago, and just think, I am now allergic to cigarette smoke.

Anyway, good luck to everyone who attempts to stop smoking. I know it can be done.

This is the time of the year when many residents begin to think about Christmas shopping.

We would like to urge everyone after making their list to remember our merchants at home.

Our local merchants depend upon our residents shopping at home.

A dollar spent at home turns over many times and helps pay the salaries of residents as well as contributing to the operation of our local governments.

You can purchase just about everything in our area from a television set to an auto.

So, before you buy those gifts, think about buying them at home if possible.

Take a breather...

Thursday November 19, 1987

What a difference a day can make! It's only 24 hours, but if you give up cigarettes for the day of the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, Thursday, you just might give them up for good, and live a longer, healthier life. It's worth a try.

Get in the pink! As soon as you stop smoking, your lungs start repairing and cleaning themselves, and pretty soon you have healthier lungs. Give it a try on Thursday, the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. Don't stay hooked. Prove that you can do without cigarettes for 24 hours by giving them up for the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, Thursday, Nov. 19. It's a great day to start getting free from cigarettes.

Every year, you say you're going to do it. Quit cigarette smoking, that is. On Thursday, Nov. 19, join the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. Quitting never felt so good.

Make a fresh start. Quit smoking and regain your energy, your control, even your fresh-smelling breath. Learn more about the benefits of quitting cigarettes from the American Cancer Society. Then join the Great American Smokeout, Thursday, Nov. 19, and go smoke-free for the day.

Have you ever considered adopting? You probably know a smoker who'd love to quit for the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, but needs a little help. So, on Thursday, Nov. 19, "adopt" a smoker and help him or her stay away from cigarettes for 24 hours. You'll both feel great doing it!

There's no better way to tell someone you love them than by helping them give up cigarettes. "Adopt" a loved one on Thursday, Nov. 19—the day of the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout.

Circle Nov. 19 on your calendar. That's the day of the Great American smokeout, sponsored by the American Cancer Society. All smokers are invited to kick the habit for at least 24 hours. Show yourself you can do it for the day!

Quitting smoking is easier when you have someone to do it with. And on Thursday, Nov. 19, you'll be joined by millions of other quitters during the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. So don't go it alone; you'll be part of the crowd of smokers who've given up the habit for the day.

The American Cancer Society wants you to be a quitter. Quit smoking on Thursday, Nov. 19, for the Great American Smokeout.

Nov. 19 could be a red-letter day. If you're one of the millions of American smokers eager to quit—but not so sure you can make it—give it a try on Thursday, for the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. It just could be your day.

Take a breather on Nov. 19. Join the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout, and give yourself a break you can live with.

Thinking about having another pinch? Think again. Smokeless tobacco is not harmless tobacco. If you dip or chew, join your smoking buddies on Thursday, Nov. 19 for the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. Take a day off from dipping.

Wouldn't you love a day off. Then spend Thursday, Nov. 19 on vacation from cigarettes. Join the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout... and give yourself 24 hours away from your old routine.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Trooper can also recall the loss of a father 'in line of duty'

To the Editor

In reference to the capital murder trial involving the slaying of Trooper Bruce Ladner:

During the trial, Cono Caranna, Herman Cox and William Martin, the prosecuting attorneys, did a fantastic job in getting the death penalty for Tracy Hansen.

They failed to mention one thing to the jury. Bruce was also a good friend to many people, a good father and good provider to his family. Bruce would work two jobs to make ends meet and to have a little extra to take his family out for a treat.

Now his family has to "get along without him."

Let me tell you how this "get along without him" is.

When my father was killed, my mother had to work three jobs to make ends meet. She had to be both mother and father to two sons the same age as Trooper Ladner's sons. It was, and still is, very hard for us just to hang on to the memory of such a fine man taken from us by the hands of a drunk driver on Dec. 23, 1967.

You see, my father was also a highway patrolman, whom I feel everybody in the community knew and respected.

In the future, Bruce's sons will have to grow up with just a thought of what could have been and not what was. They will go through school without a father to guide them through the rough times, when only a father would know the right things to say to get over maybe just a little obstacle.

The worst times are when the holidays start coming, when it was supposed to be Bruce's birthday or when it's Damon and Brandon's birthdays. Don't think that they will ever get over this traumatic experience. It will always be in the back of their minds, or more aptly, in the front.

Christmas was always hard for my family because it happened so close to it.

I remember when my mother, brother and I kissed my daddy goodbye. Just before they closed the casket, my brother and I placed my daddy's present inside with him.

It will be very hard for Bruce's family to go to the cemetery. After 20 years, I am finally beginning to feel at ease when we go to clean up or to pay respect.

Brandon and Damon will go sit beside the gravesite later on in their life and ask their father for some type of guidance when times get hard for them. When they get married, no advice can be offered to see if they are doing the right thing.

After their first child gets old enough to ask where the other Pawpaw is, you have to say their other Pawpaw was killed in the line of duty serving the people of Mississippi. Their only response is in their eyes, saying, "I don't understand."

Of course, they are too young to understand, but maybe in a few years after they know what "killed in the line of duty serving the people of the State of Mississippi" means, maybe then they will know what a fine man Bruce Ladner was.

Consumer struggles with city's computerized utility billing

Letter to the Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Editor:

Please don't get the wrong impression when I tell you that I want to talk about my utilities billing. I don't mind paying the bill and realize that water is one of our most important natural resources.

But what I would like to have clarified is what am I paying for? I look at the WA S/W, the WW and the MM with their little dollars and cents numerals to the side then I check the code column and don't find these codes correspond.

Frankly the frustration I go through trying to read the Utilities billing makes me feel like a kindergarten drop out. For a long time I tried to hide my ignorance by simply writing a check covering what the statement says is "total amount due."

Now I find that I am not alone in this quandary. People keep asking me to try to help them understand this perplexing code system. To compound the problem they are likely to have a different set of letters in the alphabet. As a public service I wonder if you would consider having one of your able and efficient reporters make an investigative call and enlighten consumers through your columns.

Why don't I simply go down to the City Hall and find out for myself? I did. That only made matters more confusing.

PTO official commends report card distribution

Nov. 11, 1987

To the Editor

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis.

Dear Sir,

As a parent with a child in the seventh grade at Bay Junior High School, I would like to commend Dr. Oge and the school board on their decision to give out report cards at the Parent/Teacher/Student conferences.

Although I am sure this was an inconvenience to some parents and teachers, to me, it was well worth the effort and time involved.

I believe having the students present at the conferences is most effective in solving problem areas as well as showing praise in areas where the student excels.

Thank you for your judgment and insight into the education and enrichment of our children.

Sincerely,
Ruth R. Thompson

Plea made to fill Salvation Army food truck

To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

Every night here on the Gulf Coast someone goes to bed hungry.

For years the Salvation Army has been feeding the hungry and providing clothes, shelter and other needs to those who ask.

The pickup truck at Mike Witte Chevrolet is only half full of non-perishable foods.

Surely Hancock Countians can fill that truck with food for The Salvation Army.

There are only a few days left. So please take whatever you can to Mike Witte on Hwy. 90 so they can send the truck to Gulfport filled.

No donation is too small. A can of vegetables or a box of grits will go a long way.

Respectfully,
Nina Garcia

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

BY BILL MINOR

JACKSON—The question most asked as the state capital anxiously awaits the coming of the "new politics" administration headed by Ray Mabus is: Where is Lt. Gov. Brad Dye going to fit into the new regime?

Mabus had said his election would be a signal that the day of the "old politics and old politicians" was over. The irony is that Mabus has been given a lieutenant governor who is the personification of the "old politics" Mabus was running against.

Dye, 53, has been on the public payroll in some kind of political job practically all of his adult life. Significantly, he is the only politician left in state government whose political roots go back to the old Jim Eastland machine.

Many see Dye replacing the departing House Speaker Buddie Newman as symbolically the most powerful figure in the legislative Old Guard.

He could also be the most powerful figure in state government since the State Supreme Court ruled in a constitutional test of Dye's powers earlier this year that he could exercise control over several key functions of the Senate while being an executive branch official.

It's ironic that our political system has produced such an odd couple as Mabus and Dye in the top two offices of the state. While Mabus represents the forces of change, Dye represents old-style political cynicism.

Surrounded as he will be by newly elected state officials in their 30s or early 40s, Dye will no doubt stand out as an anachronistic figure upon whom much attention of the press and public will focus in measuring the speed of progressivism in state government.

How Dye will choose to operate in this political environment remains to be seen. With his heady victory in the Supreme Court, and an unprecedented third successive term in the lieutenant governor's office, Dye may well try to flex his muscle in behalf of forces opposed to Mabus' programs.

Some lawmakers say privately that a confrontation between Mabus and Dye is inevitable and the only matter in doubt is how soon it will come and over what issue.

The showdown could come, one senator speculated, over the issue of calling for constitutional reform. If Mabus makes an early push for a constitutional convention, as some believe he will, Dye would oppose him, precipitating another classic legislative battle on the issue.

Meanwhile, Dye will have his hands full trying to consolidate his own power base in the state Senate. He has lost a couple of his top lieutenants, and he will have a dozen or so apparently independent new members to deal with.

Among newcomers who may make Dye's job a little more uncomfortable are Alice Harden, of Jackson, former president of the Mississippi Association of Educators, the teacher union which has not been pleased with Dye's performance on teachers issues, and Margaret "Wootsie" Tate of Picayune, who helped tackle the Old Guard as a member of the House.

One of Dye's stickiest problems will be what to do with Sen. Robert Crook of Ruleville, the senior member of the Senate, but not a Dye favorite, to say the least.

Dye has to fill the chairmanship of the powerful Appropriations Committee since Sen. Glen Deweese of Meridian is giving up the spot to be president pro tempore. If promotion by seniority were followed, Crook would move up since he is now vice-chairman and the senior member of the committee.

But word is out that Dye plans to give it to Sen. Jack Gordon of Okolona, Dye's closest lieutenant. Gordon has already bragged in some quarters that he has the Appropriations post locked up.

A number of senators, however, regard Gordon as heavy-handed and limited in his grasp of the issues and they predict that if he gets the key chairmanship, it will bring about a split in the Senate that will erode Dye's leadership.

Closely watched will be how Dye treats Sens. Stephen Hale of Moss Point and Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis, who brought the lawsuit challenging Dye's power under Senate rules to appoint Senate committees, assign bills and serve on the Rules Committee.

A move to change the Senate rules and strip Dye of those powers is expected to come at the opening of the 1988 session, probably led by Taylor.

Although the move would be expected to lose, its backers are hopeful it will start a revolt similar to the rules revolt in the House.

Hale was put through a tough campaign in the recent general election by Republican Dave Ogorn of Moss Point, who received heavy financial backing from business and industry lobby groups which are closely identified with Dye.

"I never saw Brad's hand directly involved," says Hale, "but I know that PAC money was flowing into my opponent's campaign." Also, Hale said, Ogorn was evidently given access to the 1987 Senate journal which had not yet been published.

Diamondhead Supermarket manager presented award by Goodwill

Howard Hamilton, owner-manager of the Diamondhead Supermarket, was recently presented an award for maintaining the Goodwill collection box at the Aloha Shopping Center in Diamondhead.

LeRoy Modenbach, executive director for Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi, presented the award to Hamilton.

Goodwill Industry is based on the principle that people can help themselves if given the opportunity.

By providing opportunity for the disabled or handicapped individual to find a job, Goodwill enables these people to achieve the freedom and self-satisfaction that work can bring.

Collection boxes, such as the one in Diamondhead, are the life-line from the general public who donate re-usable clothes and merchandise to Goodwill, Modenbach said.

Goodwill's handicapped workers then sort and repair these items which are sold and the income realized provides wages to the workers and support for business overhead.

"It is hard to overestimate the importance of individuals such as Howard Hamilton for the success of Goodwill," he added.

Over time hundreds, even thousands, of dollars of merchandise passes through each Goodwill collection box.

Without these boxes many handicapped people would not be working and instead would be unproductive on welfare or disability assistance, Modenbach said.

"All merchants who provide a collection box site are providing a great community service," he said.

County Agents Notes

STARTING A CHAIN SAW

Cold weather is making its presence known to us in Hancock County, and I can tell by the wood-cutting activity going on that many of you are preparing for winter. Those of you who use chain saws know they help get the job done quickly.

Don't get in a hurry and dispense with safety, however. One of the most common mistakes a person can make is to start the saw the wrong way. This leads to inefficiency, and perhaps a regrettable accident.

Follow this procedure when starting a chain saw: Place the saw on the ground. Get a good footing and hold the saw down on the ground with one hand. Pull the crank with the other hand.

A saw that is maintained and tuned starts easily and safely. If you're on a ladder or in a tree, don't start the saw there since you may not be able to stay balanced.

FARM BUSINESS MANAGEMENT
A farm business management seminar will be held in Greenville, Dec. 3-4, to help Mississippi farm families with business problems. Good production practices are being followed by some of our farm families but they fail to apply sound management principles in their operations.

This has caused some farm families to have severe financial problems. While the seminar won't solve all problems, it can help people find answers and become better managers.

The seminar is sponsored by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Delta Farm and Family Financial Management Center. I will be getting more information on the program soon.

Winter Grazing

Our cool season grazing situation in Hancock County does not look good at this time. Severe dry weather in early fall hindered our soil preparation and delayed our planting. Many young plants have been lost because they haven't had enough moisture.

You can do several things to help cool season grazing stands that are weakened by weather problems. Calves can be creep-grazed and larger animals can be kept from grazing so the stands can establish.

Cows and older animals may be fed other feeds, such as hay or residues from row crops. Additional fertilizer can be added, if needed, to get more growth. Be sure you don't overgraze your stands and you give them a chance to recover.

You haven't found the best deal on a new or used car until you stop here!

R & D economic review optimistic

JACKSON—According to the Mississippi Research and Development Center's recent publication, "Mississippi Economic Review and Outlook," Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped sharply in the first half of 1987, and the state's economy continued to expand at a moderate pace.

The report, produced by the Center's Forecast and Analysis Bureau, highlights short-term and long-term forecasts for the state. The October issue of the semiannual report includes a discussion of the factors that affect per capita income in the state and an article on the oil and gas industry in Mississippi.

According to the report, Mississippi's economy is expected to grow at a slightly faster rate in 1988 because of rising agriculture and energy prices and improving foreign trade conditions.

However, with the national economic expansion entering the fifth year, the possibility of a recession is increasing.

The state economy appears to be in a stronger position to weather the adverse impact of a recession than it was during the 1981-1982 recession.

Over the next ten years, Mississippi's inflation-adjusted gross state product (total value of goods and services produced in Mississippi) is forecast to grow at an average annual rate of 2.1 percent.

This rate compares with a projected growth rate of 2.7 percent per year for the gross national product.

Mississippi's rural nature and industry mix account for the forecast of a slower growth rate than the national forecast.

Although growth is expected to be moderate, the state's unemployment rate is projected to fall in the long run.

The report reveals that the reasons for Mississippi's relatively low per capita income status are due in part to low education levels, a low percentage of working age population, and high unemployment rates. These factors are more pronounced in Mississippi than in neighboring states.

Mississippi's oil and gas industry was forced into a deep slump by falling world energy prices in 1986.

However, the industry appears to have stabilized in 1987 as oil prices have drifted upward.

Industry stability is expected to continue, and gradual price increases are projected for the long run. The oil and gas industry remains an important source of direct and indirect jobs, income, and tax revenue in Mississippi.

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of "Mississippi Economic Review and Outlook," or who would like to be added to the mailing list to receive future copies, may contact Dr. Paul D. Warner, Senior Economist, Economic Analysis Division, Mississippi Research and Development Center, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, Mississippi 39211.

CRANBERRIES-A HOLIDAY TRADITION

Cranberries are considered a holiday tradition, but with a little planning could be an added companion to meals all year.

Fresh cranberries are only available from September through December and can now be found in the produce section of most grocery stores.

Raw cranberries provide fiber, vitamin C and potassium to the diet. They are low in calories. One cup contains approximately 50 calories.

Fresh cranberries freeze well whole or pureed.

To freeze whole berries, choose firm, deep-red berries with glossy skins. Steam and sort. Wash and drain thoroughly. For an unsweetened pack, pack cranberries into freezer containers without sugar. Leave one-half inch head space. Seal, label and freeze.

For a sweetened pack, pack berries into freezer containers. Cover with a cold 50-percent syrup (4 3/4 cups sugar to 4 cups of water).

Leave one-half inch head space. Seal, label and freeze.

To freeze pureed berries, prepare cranberries for freezing whole. Add 2 cups of water to each quart (1 pound) of berries. Cook until skins have popped. Press through a sieve. Add sugar to taste, about 2 cups for each quart (2 pounds) of puree. Pack into containers, leaving one-half inch head space. Seal, label and freeze.

Cranberries make superb jellies, relishes and catsup. The tart fruit can be incorporated into many different types of dishes that will make a delightful addition to your meals all year. Stock up now while the supply is good, freeze and then try some of the following recipes when time permits.

CRANBERRY-APPLE RELISH (makes 2 pints)

1 pound fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries
1 cup sweet cider
2 tart apples with skins, sliced
1 cup honey
grated rind of 1 lemon

pinch of mace, ground

Simmer gently, cranberries, cider and apples until fruit is soft. Add honey, rind and mace. Simmer for 5 minutes. Cool. Serve with meat, fowl or fish.

HOLIDAY CRANBERRY SALAD

1 pound fresh or frozen-fresh cranberries, coarsely ground
2 medium apples, ground
3/4 cup sugar
1 package strawberry flavored gelatin

1 cup boiling water
1 quart mold or 6-8 individual molds

Mix ground cranberries and apples with the sugar. Dissolve strawberry gelatin in boiling water. Chill until partially set. Fold cranberry mixture into partially set gelatin. Pour into a 1-quart mold or six to eight individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce leaves and surround with fresh orange slices.

FRESH CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH

1 medium orange
3 cups fresh cranberries
3/4 to 1 cup sugar

Slice unpeeled orange into eighths, remove seeds. Place half the cranberries and half the orange slices in food processor container. Process until mixture is evenly chopped. Transfer to a bowl. Repeat with remaining cranberries and orange slices. Stir in sugar. Makes about 3 cups. Note: May also be prepared in a food grinder.

FRESH CRANBERRY JELLY

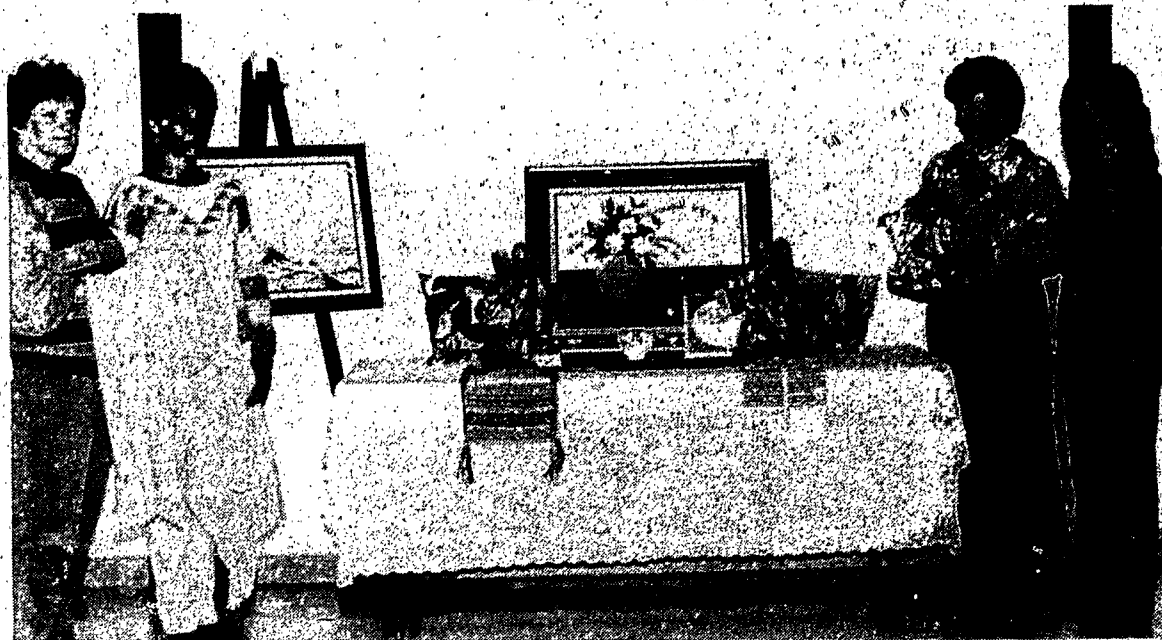

4 cups (1 lb.) fresh cranberries
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt

1 1/2 cups sugar
Wash cranberries. Put in a saucepan with water. Cover and cook 8 to 10 minutes or until skins burst. Put through a sieve, being sure to push as much of the berries through as possible. Return to the saucepan, add sugar, stir and cook uncovered for three minutes after bubbles form over surface of the mixture. Remove from heat. Cool. Store in the refrigerator. Makes about 2 cups.

Coast resident to announce presidential candidacy

GULFPORT—Robert Buck Ladner of Long Beach said Sunday that he plans to seek the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Ladner, addressing a meeting of sales executives at the Holiday Inn, said that he will make his formal announcement Tuesday Nov. 24 in Jackson and in Poplarville, later in his birthplace and where he attended local schools.

"I see no candidate, who has previously announced, that has the guts and political fortitude to discuss the real issues facing America with the electorate and win in 1988. Therefore, I offer as a candidate as a populist Democrat, proposing major monetary and fiscal reform, which will allow all Americans to sing 'Happy Days Are Here Again'."

Ladner, 57, is a retired Architect, Scientist, Financial Executive and Natural Organic Farmer, has never held elective office, but has been a candidate for Governor, congress and made practice scrimmage before the 1980 presidential election.

Ladner is married to the former Mary Rita LeBlanc of LaRose, La. and has seven children and four grandchildren having been married thirty one years.

Ladner attended Pearl River Junior College, Tulane University, served in the Air Force and holds an honorary doctor of science degree from the Institute for Applied Research in London, England.

He and his wife have participated in study-tours throughout the world including Russia, Poland, Bulgaria, Turkey, Germany, Holland, Japan, China, Taiwan, Macao, Canada and Mexico.

Ladner, who is a former paraplegic—having been paralysed from the waist down, is a veteran of the Korean War serving as a Technical Sgt. in Intelligence and Installations Engineering in the U.S. Air Force.

"My administration will be known as the 50-50 Deal", Ladner concluded, "we have a so-called Square-Deal, Fair-Deal, New-Deal, several Raw-Deals and a few Rotten-Deals; what we need is a full partnership between the American people and government so that all Americans can have their rightful piece of 'Debt-Free American Pie'."

STEVE TREUTEL

Bank elects Steve Treutel vice president

Steve Treutel has been elected vice president of Magnolia Federal Bank, according to Robert S. Duncan, president.

Treutel is mortgage loan coordinator for Magnolia Federal Bank's coast division. From his office in Gulfport, he is responsible for mortgage loan originations in Harrison, Jackson, and Hancock Counties.

Joining Magnolia Federal Bank in December 1986, he had previously been associated with First Financial Bank in New Orleans.

His experience includes having served as new accounts officer, IRA trust administrator, mortgage life and disability insurance officer, mortgage loan accountant, and internal audit supervisor.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. David Truetel of Bay St. Louis, he and his wife, Debbie, reside in Pass Christian. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Mississippi and a MBA degree from the University of New Orleans.

He has also completed several courses in banking. He is a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

Treutel is an active member of the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors, Mortgage Bankers Association, and the Gulfport Area Chamber of Commerce.

Hancock Bank Christmas club tops $2.2 million

Hancock Bank Christmas Club checks for about $2,230,758 were mailed to Christmas Club Savers on Wednesday, according to Leo W. Seal Jr., president and chief executive officer.

Seal commended savers in the club for continuing the practice of systematic savings and said "with more than $2,230,000 sent to more than 6,500 Christmas Club members throughout South Mississippi at this time, the money will add greatly to the local economy of every community in our area if Christmas shoppers buy at home."

He pointed out that savers in this year's program earned 5 percent interest per annum on their completed club accounts and said that interest is calculated from the date of deposit.

This year marks the 74th year the Christmas Club plan has been offered to South Mississippi residents by Hancock Bank. The bank initiated the program in 1914 and has since offered it annually, with the exception of the World War I time period, when savings funds were used for the purchase of Liberty Bonds.

Citing reasons why individuals use the Christmas Club plan, Mr. Seal said "in addition to using the funds for Christmas gift buying, many club members use this systematic savings plan to purchase savings certificates, to start or add to savings accounts, for year-end taxes, bills, insurance premiums, and to add to college education saving programs for their children."

1988 Christmas Club accounts can now be opened at all Hancock Bank locations in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River Counties, Mr. Seal said and the program is starting early again this year to enable selected clubs to be completed in October for checks to be mailed in early November.

He pointed out that participants in the club program may also have payments deducted automatically from their checking account each month to apply to their Christmas Club account.

Waveland Ward plans Sunday Fireside event

The Waveland Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will hold a Missionary Fireside Sunday, Nov. 22 from 6 to 7 p.m. at the chapel on McLaurin Street and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

Thomas Bosley Jr., Waveland Ward, mission leader, will be conducting.

A remake of the film "Man's Search for Happiness," will be shown. The original film was first shown at the 1964 New York's World Fair and has been used in missionary work ever since.

This movie has become one of the most popular films ever produced by the church. It answers the questions, "Where did man come from, why is he here, and where is he going?"

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will be sponsoring its third annual "Creating Christmas" craft show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

This year's show features the work of craftspersons from Hancock, Jackson and Pearl River counties.

"Among the many items offered this year", according to Becky Rotundo, chairman, "are decorated hats and fans, hand-painted sweat-shirts/suits, various amounts of wood crafts, christmas decorations, pralines, ornaments and accessories, mailboxes, photo albums, clowns, potpourri, afghans and the list goes on and on."

Carol Young will once again be providing personalizing services and will also be offering gift 'bagging' this year. Door prizes will be given away every half hour.

Members of the theatre have selected holiday gifts, decorations, art works and specialty items that best reflect the outstanding works of the artists featured.

There will be a $1 admission fee that will once again be placed in the building fund to carry on with the many repairs the theatre faces.

"And this year, thanks to the cooperation of the Seabees from NMCB7, CBC Gulfport, and donations received, we have a new roof over the audience area. We're going to make it one step at a time," says Ms. Rotundo who is also chairman of the Theatre's Restoration Committee.

Shoppers are urged to come by the theatre to get an early start on their christmas gifts. Many unique items and specialty items are available with the convenience of not having to travel the highways.

Elder Eric Ray of North Carolina and Elder Rulon Brown of Wyoming, who are missionaries presently serving in this area, will be there to answer questions.

The public is invited to come and view this film and to join with church members to commemorate the beginning of National Family Week and also National Bible Week.

Boy Scout Troop No. 630 of the Waveland Ward wishes to thank everyone who helped to make their red bean dinner last Friday a big success.

The funds raised are being earmarked for a trip to the National Boy Scouts Camp in Colorado this coming summer.

Bulldog Bash set under big top

The Mississippi State University Alumni Association will sponsor the first Bulldog Bash just before the State-Ole Miss football game in Jackson on Nov. 21.

The event will take place from noon to 1 p.m. under a maroon and white big-top tent on the north side of Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium, just across State Street from the University Medical Center.

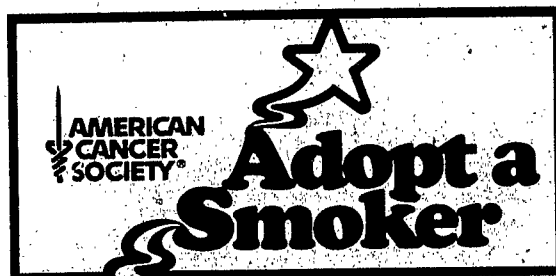

The gathering of MSU supporters will be highlighted by a 12:30 p.m. pep rally led by the university's cheerleaders, Famous Maroon Band and Bully the bulldog mascot. The football game starts at 1:30.

Free hot dogs, soft drinks, peanuts, helium balloons and face-painting will be offered, along with door prizes, and Bully will pose for photographs with Bulldog fans.

All MSU alumni and friends are invited to take part in the Bulldog Bash, said Steve Grafton, Alumni Association executive director.

The season-ending football game for both Mississippi State and Ole Miss marks the 84th meeting of the teams since 1901. It will be the 60th consecutive battle for the Golden Egg—the golden football trophy traditionally taken home by the winners.

Coast Electric members to receive refund

During the week of Dec. 7, Coast Electric Power Association will refund $279,236 in patronage capital to the association's consumer-members who received service in 1985.

According to Coast Electric General Manager Bob Occhi, this refund represents capital invested by the consumer-members of Coast Electric during the year 1985.

"The average refund check will be $20 to $30. Refunds amounting to $1 or less will not be issued by check, but may be picked up in cash by the member at our offices. The amount of the checks will vary depending on the amount of capital invested by the member during that year. Over 13,000 accounts will be involved in this refund," Occhi said.

The distribution of these funds is possible because of the non-profit nature of the cooperative's business. "Any funds contributed by our consumer-members that are not needed for the ongoing operation of the business, the repayment of debt, or investment in facilities, are considered contributed capital and are refunded to the membership when the financial condition of the cooperative permits. This is one of the many benefits enjoyed by Coast Electric's members," said Occhi.

Occhi further stated that, "We have been fortunate this past year in keeping our expenses to a minimum by operating under lean budgets. With the cooperation and support of Coast Electric's Board of Directors and the employees, we have had a successful year, making these refunds possible.

Weekly State Crop Report

Low soybean yields indicate bleak year
MISSISSIPPI STATE—Mississippi soybean farmers face another bleak season for profits because yields on the 1987 crop are low.

Harvest is over in most soybean fields, and while the crop is out earlier than usual, low yields and low prices may convince a few more farmers to make some hard choices.

"Most of us in the soybean business, despite low yields and low commodity prices, are trying to figure out ways of remaining profitable," said Dr. Nathan McKinney, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "People who can maintain good yields can remain strong in the business, but most of us are struggling this year."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture crop estimate for Mississippi said the state should average 20 bushels an acre on its 2.5 million acres of soybeans. That estimate is 3 to 4 bushels below the 10-year yield average.

"It's very hard to make money with that kind of crop," McKinney said.

Yields are low because of little rain, hot weather and low humidity for most of the season. The crop has been without a general rain since the first week in July.

"From that point on, the crop has deteriorated," McKinney said. "We've had to depend on locally scattered thundershowers to make the crop, and we didn't get those in many areas of the state."

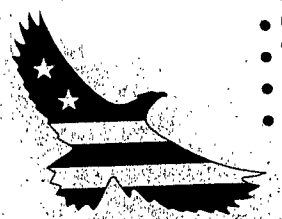

Mississippi farmers averaged 18 bushels an acre on 2.5 million acres of soybeans last year.

In other agricultural news, scattered rain last week has allowed some farmers to plant their winter grazing crops.

"The rain at the beginning of the week was a welcomed sight," said Stanford Qualls, Lincoln County agent. "It supplied a little moisture for grass."

Farmers in Scott County did not have enough rain, said William Goodwin, county agent. "We will be dry again, and soon, if more rain doesn't come," Goodwin said.

Undefeated Gulfview Bulldogs demonstrate

'A Winning Attitude'

By Brenda Frechou

Gulfview Elementary School Bulldogs came out of their 1987 football season undefeated and will play in the Superdome in New Orleans before high school champions Saturday, Dec. 12 at 11 a.m. against Ellender Memorial Junior High of Houma, La.

Members of the Gulfview School community interviewed on the Lakeshore campus revealed school self esteem to be the cause of a winning attitude on the part of the team.

Cheerleader Christina Tarver said, "The team learned a lot from last year's mistakes and did better this year."

Tammy Tosso, captain of the cheerleaders, said, "I think the team played a good season and I'm looking forward to cheering them on at the Dome."

When asked what differences he saw in his team this year, Coach Fred Bilbo said, "By winning, the kids enjoy school more and the other teachers notice that they are better students who behave themselves more and are proud of their accomplishments."

"This is especially true of eighth graders who went through so much last year when they lost every game," the coach added.

"It was hard to motivate the kids knowing that they were going to play against a team that was better than us the last time we played them," Bilbo continued.

"This year they had the attitude that they weren't going to be beat."

"I felt that Pearl River Central and Hancock North Central had better athletes but our boys' determination made the difference, he said.

When asked how it felt to coach an undefeated team, the coach said, "It feels good. Everybody enjoys winning, but this year meant a lot to me because of the eighth graders."

"They're good kids and now they are a close group. They dedicated the last game to Thurman Hillegeist, a teammate who is ill and was unable to play."

When asked if more emphasis was placed on winning than on self esteem he said, "No, I try to teach the kids to do their best."

"Last year and this year before every game I would tell the boys, 'If you win 50 to 0 and ask yourself when you leave the field if you gave it your best and you say no, then you haven't accomplished anything because you didn't give it your best.'"

"If you lose 50 to 0 and say I gave it everything I've got, that's the difference between being a winner and a loser, not who outscores the other."

"Last year even though we didn't win a game, I pushed the thought to them that they were winners, not losers just because they didn't win a game."

When asked what would be the most important thing he hoped his students had learned from him this year, he said, "To always give the best of whatever God-given ability you have no matter what the odds are against you and that to give anything less than that is just cheating yourself."

Doug Authement, quarterback for the Bulldogs, said, "It feels great to be a winner."

When asked what he learned from playing the past two years, he said, "I learned to have confidence in myself, take my time, concentrate on what has to be done and win."

Jason Chiasson, Bulldog center and nose guard, said, "I played my best and I played to win. The most important thing the coach taught me was to know everything I needed to know before I went out on the field."

Amos Huffman, tackle and guard, said, "I'm glad to be going to the Superdome in my last year to play for this school."

When asked about the most important thing the coach taught him, he said, "I learned not to be big-headed and to give it all I've got at every game and not to give up."

Shannon Simms, Gulfview's safety, said, "I like being on a winning team."

When asked about his most important lesson from the coach, he said, "If you give it your best you get satisfaction even if you lose."

FAMILY TRADITION—Teddo Thomas III, No. 69, deflects a pass in a recent high school football action. Thomas plays tackle at Denham Springs (La.) High. His father, Teddo Thomas Jr., played at Bay High School, and his grandfather, Teddo Thomas of Kiln, played at Bay High and St. Stanislaus. Denham Springs is an AAAA school currently in the Louisiana playoffs. They won the first game and will host Shaw of New Orleans Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Rockachaws to open basketball season in Louisiana tournament action

St. Stanislaus basketball Coach Chuck Genin and his Rockachaws are set to begin their season as they travel to Covington to play in the St. Paul Tournament. Wednesday through Saturday.

Although the Rocks have only one starter returning from last season, Genin feels that he will receive help from some talented sophomores who have moved up from last year's freshman team that finished their season 19-3.

"We're hoping to improve on last year's 15-9 varsity record," stated Genin. "Last year we finished second in the district to George County. We want to improve on team defense and rebounding. I feel we have a good group of balanced scorers."

Thus far in workouts, Genin has been impressed with the play of Brian Alexander.

"Brian lives and dies basketball. He looks good in his rebounding and inside play," said Genin. "On the outside, we should get some scoring from Yasin Shabazz, Shannon Garrett and Sean Sewell."

The probable starting five for the Rockachaws in the St. Paul Tournament are Alexander at center, Sewell and Garrett at forward and Shabazz and Joe Lee at guard.

"Everyone is looking forward to the season," commented Genin. "We have a bunch of enthusiastic kids with good attitudes. This will be a main ingredient in our having a great season."

SSC to enter varsity soccer arena

The St. Stanislaus Rockchaws this year will field a varsity soccer team coached by Mick Quinlan.

The Rocks will also sponsor a "B" team which will be under the direction of Brother Jim Burns.

Assisting Quinlan with the varsity squad will be Ray Kidd.

"Our goal for the season is to be highly competitive, and to qualify for post-season competition," stated Quinlan.

The district which SSC is in is very challenging, as there are 12 teams in the district. Most of the other schools have been in the district for a number of years. Gulfport, Ocean Springs and Hattiesburg are some of the strong foes that St. Stanislaus will face this year.

Following the season will be a district tournament. There are no state playoffs at this time, although there is a state "all-star" match. Quinlan mentioned that the Rocks hope to place a few players on this team, assuming they perform to their potential.

The "B" team was begun this year to generate as much enthusiasm as possible.

"We could only give out 44 Varsity and Junior Varsity uniforms," said Coach Quinlan. "The concept for this team came about so as not to have to cut anyone interested in playing quality soccer."

Although the "B" Team will not be able to qualify for post-season competition, they will engage in full-length, match-like scrimmages against local and Coastwide schools and recreational teams.

On Wednesday, the Varsity and Junior Varsity open their season at home against the St. John Eagles of Gulfport. The Junior Varsity contest is at 5:30 p.m. followed by the Varsity match at 7 p.m. All home games will be played at St. Stanislaus Stadium.

Alumnus of The Year named at Poplarville

Bruce C. Aultman, a Hattiesburg attorney and civic leader, was named Pearl River College's 1987 Alumnus of the year.

Aultman, 73, a Sumrall native and a 1935 graduate of Pearl River, was presented the coveted award during the annual Alumni Luncheon as part of the college's 78th Homecoming celebration.

"I don't think the alumni selection committee could have selected an alumni less deserving or one who appreciates this award more," said Aultman in his address to the nearly 400 alumni gathered in the Marvin R. White Coliseum.

Everette Eaton, a Sumrall businessman and a long-time member of the PRC Board of Trustees, introduced Aultman and listed his many accomplishments, including his being voted top debater as a member of PRC's 1935 state championship debate team.

In 1938, Aultman graduated from the University of Mississippi School of Law, where he served on the Student Government Council and the Constitutional Committee for the Student Body.

Eaton said Aultman was not only a good lawyer but also a good barber. "Bruce worked his way through college by barbering in his dorm room at PRC and Ole Miss," Eaton said. "In fact, he cut the hair of three former governors of Mississippi. They included J.P. Coleman, Paul Johnson, and John Bell Williams."

In Aultman's acceptance of the Alumnus Award, he encouraged all the young people in the audience to "have a genuine experience in knowing and working for your maker."

After graduating from Ole Miss, Aultman returned to south Mississippi to set up practice in Hattiesburg. At that time he also served as special assistant to the U.S. Attorney's Office.

In 1942 he enlisted in the Army and earned the rank of Captain by the time World War II ended. He resumed his law practice in Hattiesburg immediately after the war. He was named to the U.S. Senatorial Sub-Committee on Privileges & Elections soon after returning from the war.

In 1947, Aultman became president of the Hattiesburg Junior Chamber of Commerce and was vice-president of the state organization in 1949. That's the same year he was named Mississippi's Junior Chamber of Commerce's Outstanding Young Man of the Year.

In 1950, Aultman took over as president of the state organization. By 1952 he was serving on Governor White's staff.

Aultman also served as president and vice-president of the Mississippi Economic Council and on President Dwight Eisenhower's National Finance Committee.

Aultman has served as president of the Forrest County Bar Association, South Central Mississippi Bar Association and of the Mississippi Lawyers and C.P.A. Tax Institute.

The PRC alumnus has membership in the American College of Trial Lawyers.

He has also served as president of the PRC Alumni Association and the Hattiesburg Rotary Club. In 1976 he was presented the "Hannah Award" as best Rotarian.

From 1951 to 1978 he served on the William Carey College Board of Trustees, serving as chairman on several occasions.

Aultman has been a member of the First Baptist Church of Hattiesburg since 1946 and over the years he has served as a Sunday School teacher, deacon, Gideon and chairman of the Board of Deacons.

Bottom fishing for bass

by Trey Foerster

One of the hardest skills for an angler to acquire is bottom fishing. Now, I don't mean 10 feet down in shallow lakes; "bottom" here can mean 20 to 40 feet! "How on earth am I going to get those bass?" I once pondered on an impoundment. Little did I know that my instinctual choice would be supported by bass pros over a year later.

"If you're fishing below 20 feet," states Ken Cook, Evinrude Pro Staff member, "you've got to use baits that sink pretty fast. The things I use are the jigging spoon, a grub, or a plastic worm. My choice depends on the time of year."

"If you're fishing deep water in the summertime, I tend to go with a plastic worm or a plastic grub most of the time. Sometimes I use the jigging spoon in extreme depths—when you get below 40 feet, the jigging spoon or a real compact lure, like a Little George or Tailspinner, is about the only bait that will get down there efficiently."

"In the 20 to 40-foot range," Cook continues, "I fish either a jigging spoon, Little George, a sonic vibrating lure like a Silver Buddy, or the plastic worm or grub. To fish those baits properly, make your cast or vertical drop to the bottom, and then just pick it up off the bottom with a varying amount of vigorosity."

In the winter, you're usually dealing with cold water bass that don't want a real vigorous bait, so lift it up a few inches from the bottom, making it rise a little, then let it fall back down. In the summer, when the water is warmer and the bass are more aggressive and are actively feeding, they normally react better to a more vigorous jigging action, so you pop it up off the bottom maybe two or three feet. In the process of raising it of the bottom, give it three jigs (dart, dart, dart) and then let it down."

Half of the bass Cook caught at a July Pro Bass tournament in Las Vegas, Nev., were 40 feet down and on four pound test line!

"With a line that light you don't have to use a big heavy bait," Cook states. "The light line has good sensitivity and good bait action. I primarily use a four pound test line with an eight ounce jighead on it with a four-inch worm. It gets down pretty fast."

"You don't want your lure to go down like a rock," cautions Cook. "You want some action to it as it descends. I use what they call 'doodling,' or shaking the worm. That's the hot thing to do in deep water: Get your bait down there and hold it at the desired depth and shake it with your rod tip."

If it has been a while since you last treated your outboard to a tune-up, consider scheduling an appointment with your dealer in the fall or winter months. Don't wait until April or May, when the service department at most dealerships is swamped. The service manager is often looking for work to do in November and December, and many stores run off-season specials. Tune up now, and you'll be ready to go when the fish start biting again.

Have any questions you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot them down and mail them to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

Eighty-five boaters met Saturday, Nov. 14 at the Community Center for a traditional Thanksgiving dinner.

The boaters provided the turkey and members brought covered dishes and dessert.

Betty Claggett gave a short talk on the origin of Thanksgiving. Door prizes were won by Betty MacMurray who picked her own name for the turkey, Hop Drees, Arno Leshin and Larry Abrams.

All members wishing to enter their boats in our Dec. 19 Parade of Lights contact Commodore Ballard or Bob Calvey at the Ships Store. If you are decorating bring a covered dish to the Ships Store at noon and have lunch with us before decorating and going out.

The boats will come in at dark, with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus aboard. There will be goodies for the little ones and then the big ones will party at the Yacht Club, dutch treat, with music by Jay Heitzman. This is one of our big fun parties, so be sure not to miss it.

We need members to participate in the skits for our Coronation Jan.

Did you know that NO school in America has EVER won the national championship in major-college football 3 years in a row in the entire history of the news-service polls, which started in 1936. Several teams have won the national title 2 years in a row, but none has done it 3 straight.

One of the most unbelievable football series of all-time was the one between the University of Pittsburgh and Fordham University. They played 3 games, in 1935, '36 and '37, and, amazingly, NEITHER team scored ANY points in ANY OF THOSE GAMES! They played 3 straight 0-0 games!

Here's a quiz for you. There are just 9 major-college football teams in the nation whose nicknames DON'T end in the letter "s". How many of the 9 can you name? They are the Alabama Crimson Tide, Illinois Illini, Navy Midshipmen, North Carolina State Wolfpack, Notre Dame Fighting Irish, Stanford Cardinal, Syracuse Orange, Tulane Green Wave and the Tulsa Hurricane.

I bet you didn't know...Auto World is your best bet for engine overhaul kits. We feature Hastings piston rings and Felpro gaskets. Remember, we're under the Flag!

NEWSLETTER

COASTAL PROGRAMS DIVISION Affirmative Management

►Affirmative management activities continued to be a large portion of the Bureau of Marine Resources annual Section 306 and 306A Coastal Zone Management Grant. Affirmative Management is a major section of the Mississippi Coastal Program that balances the regulatory provisions of programs such as wetlands permitting and federal consistency with positive or affirmative efforts toward enhanced management of the states coastal and marine resources.

►Included in the state's FY '87 CZM grant are funds for the museums in Biloxi and Pascagoula. Both are worthy projects that continue to educate and inform coastal residents and visitors of the importance of the seafood industry to coastal Mississippi and the dependency of the industry on a viable coastal environment now and as was in the past.

►Urban waterfront development planning assistance continues in the Bureau's affirmative management efforts as waterfront communities plan for increased access and greater economic gains through various waterfront improvements such as piers, docks, bulkheads, boat launches, parks, marinas, parking facilities, lighting, improved ingress and egress and circulation.

►The 306A low cost construction fund is a new tool of the Bureau's in its affirmative management efforts. Only recently funded by Congress but authorized in the 1980 amendments to the Coastal Zone Management Act (CZMA). A variety of projects can be undertaken in this program such as:

1. The acquisition of fee simple or other interest in land.
2. Low cost construction projects including but not limited to paths, walkways, fences, parks and the rehabilitation of historic buildings and structures.
3. The rehabilitation or acquisition of piers to provide increased public use, including compatible commercial activity.
4. The establishment of shoreline stabilization measures including the installation or rehabilitation of bulkheads for the purpose of public safety or increased public access and use of urban waterfront areas.

5. The removal or replacement of pilings where such action will provide increased recreational use of urban waterfront areas.

6. Engineering designs, specifications, and other appropriate reports related to the above.

7. Educational, interpretive, and other management costs.

►The above described affirmative management efforts are only several of the many tasks the Coastal Programs Division has funded and monitored since adoption of the Mississippi Coastal Program as state policy by the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation in 1980. The Coastal Programs Division continues to support the regulatory functions of the Bureau with CZM grant funds through the purchase of office and field equipment, fuel for boats, motors and trucks, commodities, shell planting, as well as funding research for better wetlands permitting.

►For information about the grant or the Mississippi Coastal Program call Bureau of Marine Resources' Jerry Mitchell, Chief Coastal Programs Division.

COASTAL PROGRAMS

►The Coastal Zone Management (CZMA) of 1972, as amended, requires the Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management (OCRM) to conduct a continuing review of Mississippi's performance in managing its coastal resources and in implementing the programs assisted financially under the various sections of the CZMA. Site visits are an essential part of this process. The OCRM has rescheduled a site visit from Nov. 16 through Nov. 20, 1987, to discuss implementation of the Mississippi Coastal Program (MCP).

►The review will assess Mississippi's progress in managing its coastal resources under the MCP from July 1985 through October, 1987. The OCRM will examine the extent to which Mississippi is addressing the national coastal management objectives contained in Section 303(2) of the CZMA, properly implementing Federal consistency, meeting the benchmarks for significant improvements, implementing and enforcing the MCP, and adhering to programmatic terms and conditions of Section 306 financial assistance awards under the CZMA.

Specific items and topics of the evaluation include:

1. Simplification of regulatory procedures, which have been proven valuable in the implementation of the CMP and which may be useful for sharing with other states.

2. The identification of areas where the OCRM may assist the State in reducing the costs associated with programmatic or award related stipulations previously required by OCRM.

3. Efforts to monitor activities conducted related to implementation of the MCP, including enforcement techniques.

4. The identification of successful cost-effective resource management techniques.

►The evaluation includes a site visit in both Jackson and the various coastal locations and a public meeting, (Nov. 17, 1987, 7:30 p.m., Westside Community Center, Gulfport). For additional information contact: June Cradick (202) 673-5104 in Washington, DC or BMR's Jerry Mitchell (601) 864-4602.

PUBLIC HEARING

►The Wetlands Division held a Public Hearing to obtain public comments on a proposed canal project off the Jourdan River, Hancock County, by Mr. Donald Crump representing the Cinque Bambini Partnership. A number of residents in the area provided information regarding the project and the applicant outlined his project for the record.

WETLANDS PERMITS

►The Commission on Wildlife Conservation acted on two permits requested during the October meeting. The Commission voted to approve a revision to the Point Cadet Development Corporation permit to allow the construction of two finger piers to support a Boat Travellift. The Commission also approved the permit request by Mr. Joseph Garrard to maintain an existing slip and to make improvements to an existing docking facility.

WETLANDS STAFF

►The Wetlands Staff met with Ms. Helen Weatherbee of the Attorney

General's Office to formulate guidelines for processing violations of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Law. Commissioner Joseph "Jody" Gex and Director Richard L. Leard also participated in the meeting. ►Topics of discussion included the proper procedure for notifying potential violators, administrative procedures which must be followed when resolving violations and the use of more stringent measures which could be implemented against those who violate the law.

Gun/deer season opens soon

JACKSON—Next weekend is probably the biggest time of the year for many Mississippi sportsmen. It marks the opening of the first gun season on deer.

The season gets underway Saturday, Nov. 21 and continues through Dec. 1. During this time hunters will be able to use dogs for running deer.

The bag limit on white-tailed deer is one antlered buck per day, but not more than five per license year. The shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

All 82 counties will be open for deer hunting.

Conservation enforcement authorities in Jackson say that all hunters except those exempt under state law must have a valid hunting license on them while hunting. They will need to wear at least 500 square inches of continuous, fluorescent daylight hunter orange while they are hunting.

Anyone operating a deer camp during any open season must obtain a deer camp permit from the Department of Wildlife Conservation before beginning operations. The permit is free.

November Outdoors Calendar
Nov. 14, Second dove season closed. Snipe season opened.
Nov. 17, Woodcock flights began arriving.
Nov. 19, Wintering eagles begin appearing on water areas.
Nov. 21, First gun season on deer opens.
Nov. 26, Thanksgiving.
Nov. 27, Southern bald eagles begin nesting.
Nov. 28, Trapping season opens.

USM educator helping develop youth sports standards

HATTIESBURG—A University of Southern Mississippi athletic trainer and educator has joined a group of experts in developing national standards for youth sports programs.

James B. Gallaspay, associate professor in the Department of Coaching and Sports Administration and an athletic trainer at USM, participated in an Oct. 28-30, "First National Symposium to Develop Standards for Youth Sports," held in Washington, D.C.

"Youth sports is a wonderful, health experience for most children," said Fred Engh, president and chief executive officer of the National Youth Sports Coaches Association (NYSCA) planning committee.

"The symposium, we feel, will help produce standards that all parents should follow in their role as a parent, coach, or administrator," he said.

During the meeting, Gallaspay and some 48 of the nation's leading experts in sports medicine, psychology, sociology and other disciplines investigated and discussed the various aspects of youth sports for youngsters aged 6-12.

"My group dealt with the types of injuries common in youth sports programs and what coaches and parents should do to prevent and treat those injuries," Gallaspay said. "We also looked at nutritional issues and at the effects of a number of drugs on physical performance, including steroids," he added.

The symposium—sponsored by the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Department of Health and Human Service Office for Substance Abuse Prevention—hosted representatives from grassroots programs such as youth baseball, football, basketball, softball, national youth organizational sports programs, all branches of the U.S. military, Special Olympics and parks and recreation departments.

Representatives participating in the program are scheduled to meet again early in 1988 to review data from the 1987 symposium and subsequent reports, and to make final recommendations for the youth sports program guidelines.

A number of agencies have joined with the NYSCA in promoting the program—including the Office of Substance Abuse and the Drug Enforcement Administration, which has agreed to distribute 25,000 "Parental Standards in Youth Sports" manuals through the NYSCA's chapters in 2,000 cities and the U.S. military programs worldwide.

Scholastic art awards committee outlines competition requirements

JACKSON—The Scholastic Art Awards Regional Advisory Committee has announced that plans are in the works for the 1988 Mississippi regional Scholastic Art Awards competition.

Scholastic Art Awards are sponsored in Mississippi by the Mississippi Museum of Art and Chevron U.S.A. Inc.

This art awards program, in its 61st year, encourages student achievement in the creative and visual arts. Conducted nationwide by Scholastic, Inc., this competition makes it possible for young artists to be recognized and rewarded for their creativity and skill in the creative and visual arts.

Students from junior and senior high schools may submit entries Jan. 4-8, 1988 in the following categories: painting, drawing, printmaking, graphic and textile design, sculpture, pottery, jewelry, three-dimensional art and photography.

Area art teachers may select the best works from their students and submit these works to the Mississippi

Museum of Art for judging by art educators, artists and photographers who have been recommended by the Regional Advisory Committee.

Regional finalists' works will be exhibited in the Mississippi Museum of Art Feb. 6-20, 1988, before being sent to New York for the national competition.

Scholastic Art Awards information and entry forms may be obtained from art teachers in all public and private junior and senior high schools in Mississippi.

Further information on the Scholastic Art Awards program may be obtained from the Mississippi Museum of Art, 201 East Pascagoula Street, Jackson, MS 39201, (601) 960-1515 or (1-800) 423-4971 within Mississippi.

Bay/Waveland School District to present AIDS Awareness Program for parents

An AIDS Awareness Program will be held in the Bay Senior High Library tonight at 7 p.m.

A 20-minute video will be shown. After the video, Dr. Bertin Chevis will answer questions those in attendance may have.

A representative from the Hancock County Health Department will also be available to provide information on the impact of AIDS in Hancock County.

This parent information night is a follow-up to the AIDS Education Program recently begun at Bay Senior High and planned for the Junior High in the near future.

Experts agree that education is a key factor in fighting this fatal disease.

Parents and the general public are invited and encouraged to attend the program.

Cooperation required to control head lice

Head lice, in the classroom frustrate teachers, embarrass parents, and victimize children.

"Don't panic; just get rid of them," advises the Mississippi State Department of Health.

Teachers, parents, physicians, nurses, and children can cooperate to control lice infestation.

The first sign of lice is often intense itching in the affected area. Close inspection will reveal whitish eggs or nits, firmly attached to the hair shaft close to the scalp, or hatched lice and the itchy red mark the louse's saliva causes. Lice prefer the finer hair of the back of the head and behind the ears.

The louse respects no person. People of all social and economic levels can become infected, but lice infestation most readily appears among school children who provide obvious groupings of individuals.

Once lice enter the classroom, they can move easily from one person to another.

Fortunately, safe medications—many without prescription—exist to rid the individual of the lice. Repeat treatments are needed to kill newly hatched insects. Treatment product instructions must be followed carefully.

When a teacher finds a child with head lice, he or she should contact the child's parents. The teacher should tell the parent how to treat the child and have the parent take the child out of class until proof of treatment can be presented for readmittance to the classroom. Readmittance does not require proof of treatment from the county health department.

Parents should launder—wash and/or dry at temperature of at least 130°F—all bed linens and clothing the child had worn for the past several days before discovery. They should also carefully check any other children in the home.

Teachers should warn students that sharing hats, combs, brushes, and other personal articles will lead to further spread of lice infestation. They should stop hanging coats close together.

The State Department of Health does not recommend school closings. In information provided to the State Department of Education and school districts statewide, health officials covered facts about head lice control and treatment.

Body and pubic or crab lice continue to be a problem. But with proper treatment with available medication and proper clean-up procedures, these infestations can be controlled.

UM legal seminar to consider defense in child sex-abuse cases

An internationally-known expert in defending child sex-abuse cases will be featured in a continuing legal education seminar on Nov. 20-21 at Jackson's Ramada Renaissance Hotel.

The University of Mississippi Center for Continuing Legal Education is sponsoring the seminar taught by Dr. Ralph Underwager and a team from the Institute for Psychological Therapies in Minneapolis, Minn.

Some of the seminar subjects will include sexual abuse accusations in divorce and custody litigation, jury selection, what to look for in discovery and effective cross-examination of experts.

The program will also deal with criteria for identifying a false accusation of child sexual abuse, including misleading interrogation of children, memory capacity of children as a factor in accusations, and adult behavior that contaminate children's statements.

Fee for the seminar, which offers nine CLE credits, is $125.

Pre-enrollment is advised. Registration will be on Friday from 8:15-9 a.m. with on-site enrollment on a space-available basis.

Classes begin at 9 a.m. both days. The seminar will conclude Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

For information, contact the University of Mississippi Center for Continuing Legal Education at 3825 Ridgewood Rd., Jackson, MS 39211; telephone (601) 982-6590.

USM violinist selected

HATTIESBURG—A violinist and teacher at the University of Southern Mississippi has been selected as a performing artist for the 1988-90 touring roster of the Mississippi Arts Commission.

Dr. Jerrie Cadek Lucktenberg, a professor in the USM College of Fine Arts' School of Music, was chosen by the commission for her many contributions as an educator in the music field and her virtuosity on the modern violin, as well as the Baroque violin and its literature.

As a touring performer under MAC sponsorship, Lucktenberg will be available to many of the state's local arts-oriented organizations as a performer and instructor.

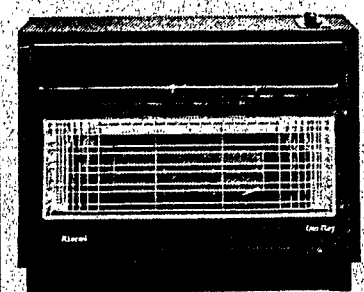

Her program includes a solo violin recital (with piano accompaniment) featuring works spanning the past 200 years of traditional virtuoso literature. She also offers workshops for string teachers and master classes for students of all ages and levels of advancement.

Mississippi pecans are special treat

Mississippi pecans are a naturally delicious, nutritious food. Whether served right from the shell—toasted with butter, sugared, spiced or salted mixed into salads, entrees, vegetables, desserts—or served in dozens of other ways, pecans are a tasty way to add flavor, crunch and nutrition.

Pecans are a good source of protein and important vitamins and minerals, including iron, calcium and the B vitamins. They are rich in potassium and phosphorus, two minerals often required for special dietary needs. And, of course, they provide the fiber that's so important to daily diets.

With so little trouble, you can add pecans to a multitude of dishes, appetizers and snacks, yet they always add a fancy touch, not to mention rich flavor and appealing crunch. Only a handful or so added to most recipes will do the trick.

Although pecans traditionally have been popular in pies, cakes, other sweet baked goods and desserts, they're equally delicious in casseroles, salads, sandwich fillings and vegetables. It's fun to use your imagination to see just how many different ways you can use pecans to make a dish special.

As far as researchers can tell, pecan trees have been growing for thousands of years. A relative of the walnut and hickory, pecan trees are thought to have grown wild along rivers with flowing waters, which carried them throughout much of the country.

Records of early Spanish and French explorers show that American Indian tribes inhabiting the Mississippi Valley, as far north as Illinois and into western Texas and southern Oklahoma, knew about pecan trees long before the discovery of America.

To select nuts in the shell which are of the highest quality, choose those that are clean and free of splits, cracks, stains or holes. There is no correlation between the quality of a nut and its size. When selecting shelled pecans, look for plump nutmeats which are fairly uniform in color and size. The best ones have a golden brown color.

You may purchase halves for garnishes, but pieces will suit most of your needs. They usually cost less and will save you chopping time.

Pecans are long lasting, and when stored properly, hold their freshness for up to two years. This means pecans may be purchased in quantity when prices are most reasonable and enjoyed all year through. You can store unshelled pecans in a cool dry place for about six months. Unshelled pecans resist insects and aging much longer than shelled nuts; however, shelling before storage reduces their bulk by approximately one-half. Shelled or unshelled pecans may be kept under refrigeration in airtight containers for about nine months, or stored in freezer for up to two years.

A recent survey conducted among consumers nationwide showed that the majority preferred pecans over other most often used nuts. The reason why is their full, rich flavor. Unlike some other nuts, they contributed a lot more than crunch texture to recipes. What's more, pecans are convenient because they are always ready to use in their natural state.

Pecans can be enjoyed in a wide variety of ways all year around. Don't save them only for holiday baking. Instead, keep a supply of shelled pecan pieces on hand for ready use.

WHO'S DRIVING HOME?

Alas, the party's over. The music is playing softly in the background, friends are saying good night and the clean up detail is beginning. But for Brian, Jennifer, Tracey and Rick, who added drinking to their evening, a decision has to be made. Approximately 46 teenagers will be killed this year in Mississippi by drinking and driving or riding with someone who does. It's your choice.

GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY SAFETY PROGRAM

ASCS Report

AFIDA REQUIREMENTS

To avoid Federal penalties and monetary fines, Franklin A. Gennin, County Executive Director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office said foreign investors who acquire or transfer any interest other than a security interest in Pearl River or Hancock County's agricultural land must report the transaction within 90 days.

"The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Report is required by law, and those who are late in reporting or who fail to report face possible penalties," he said.

ASCS is responsible for keeping track of how much agricultural land is owned or controlled by foreign individuals or interests. The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure reports contain the date the land was acquired or transferred, the value of the purchase price yet to be paid, and the estimated value of the land.

Gennin said agricultural land is any tract of more than 10 acres now in agricultural, forestry, or timber production. "This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural use."

Interest means any right, title, or legal share of ownership in agricultural land, such as partnerships, trusts, estates, or shares in a corporation that owns agricultural land.

According to Gennin, foreign investors have reported owning about 12.4 million acres of U.S. agricultural land as of December 31, 1986. "Foreign persons must keep direct and indirect ownership information current, file a report if they cease to be a foreign person, and if the agricultural land ceases to be agricultural," the ASCS official said.

USDA POSTPONES

Because of uncertainties about congressional budget legislation, the U.S. Department of Agriculture postponed the Oct. 19 opening of the 1988 Wheat Program.

"If budget and related legislation now before congress is enacted, it could affect the 1988 Wheat-program provisions," Gennin said.

The new signup date for wheat and other 1988 farm programs will be announced later," the ASCS official said.

Everybody's Science

Blueberries, a better bet yet

Is it possible to improve on all-time favorites like blueberry cobbler and blueberry pie?

Scientists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture think they've discovered a way—by improving the fruit that goes into these classic American desserts. And not only will blueberries be better, we'll be having them earlier in the year.

That's because new highbush varieties are now available at nurseries. These newly developed bushes will produce blueberries in a few years that will ripen earlier and taste sweeter.

"These new blueberries are a far cry from the smaller native wild berries that the Indians ate fresh from the plant or Union soldiers forked from cans during the Civil War," said Dr. Arlen D. Draper, who specializes in breeding blueberries for USDA's Agricultural Research Service. "Not only will the berries be larger, they'll stay fresher and be more resistant to disease than their wild cousins of a century ago."

Of the five new highbush berries, two are well-suited to the colder northern climate: Toro, which grows best in Michigan, New Jersey and North Carolina, and Duke, which is well-suited to Michigan, the mid-Atlantic states and the Pacific Northwest. Cooper, Gulfcoast and Georgiagem are a new cash crop for the south, where early-bearing highbush blueberries can command premium early-season prices.

Scientists have also been studying a disease that can cut into blueberry yields. Mummy-berry disease is a freeload fungus that robs fruit of sugar, leaving berries tasteless, woody and dried out.

This clever fungus would not be able to get around were it not for a bit of trickery. It alters the appearance, smell and taste of blueberry leaves to mimic flower blossoms. Result?

An unwary bee mistakes infected leaves for flowers, where she expects to find a supply of sweet nectar. Landing on the leaf, she only gets fungus spores all over her tongue and legs. Flying off to the next plant, the hapless bee serves as a living taxicab for the fungus.

Fortunately for blueberry growers, scientists have found the disease can often be controlled with urea, although persistent infections may require a fungicide.

President's Choice
Real Butter Basted Turkeys

Did You Know?

There's NO BUTTER
 In A Butterball!

That's right. There is no butter in a Butterball Frozen Prebasted Turkey, only COCONUT OIL MARGARINE—the tropical oil that ranks highest in saturated fat! By contrast, BUTTER contributes flavor as well as juiciness (many classically trained chefs insist on buttering poultry before roasting, or drizzling melted butter over roasted chicken just before serving). Which is why the New President's Choice Grade A REAL Butter Basted Frozen Turkey is injected with 93-score, AA Butter (that's the best quality butter you can buy!). In our opinion, President's Choice REAL BUTTER BASTED Turkeys are clearly superior to any frozen prebasted or unbasted turkey you have ever tasted.

WORLD OF ACRYLICS

Mississippi ETV begins airing "The Wonderful World of Acrylics" with instructor Brenda Harris at 2:30 p.m., Saturdays, beginning Nov. 21.

Harris' goal is to teach viewers how to paint a complete picture in each of the 13 weekly programs.

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions — horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

ENGLISH LITERATURE (sol: 11 letters)

The W wins Halbbrook

COLUMBUS—Mississippi University for Women is the winner of the Halbbrook Award in the university division for the third consecutive year. The award recognizes academic achievement among student athletes.

The statewide honor, presented Monday at the 54th annual Junior/Senior College Conference at Meridian Junior College, goes to the university, college and junior college having the highest percentage of their athletes graduating for the last academic year.

MUW graduated 87.1 percent of its athletes during the specified time period to take the award in the public university division. That figure is up two percent from last year's winning mark.

The award is figured on data from 1982-83 teams. It is based on how many of the 1982-83 team members graduate within five years of that date, in accordance with the NCAA rules.

MUW's basketball and volleyball teams of 1982-83 had a 100 percent graduation rate. The tennis team had 75 percent of its athletes graduating within the specified time period, and the softball team had an 80-percent rate.

MUW also had the highest percentage of graduating women student athletes.

"It is very gratifying to see the MUW athletic program receive the Halbbrook Award for the third consecutive year," said Dr. Dorothy Burdeshaw, head of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at MUW. "I am very proud of the graduation rate of 87 percent."

"I am also very proud that our teams have won more than 70 percent of our athletic events during each of the last three years."

Dr. Burdeshaw said she believes the MUW athletic program is demonstrating an educational model of sport in which it is possible to have very good athletic performance and also have student-athletes achieve academic success.

"I know our coaches stress this factor from the first day we recruit students and throughout their years at MUW, I think the faculty of MUW should receive credit also for helping us maintain academic integrity among student athletes," she said.

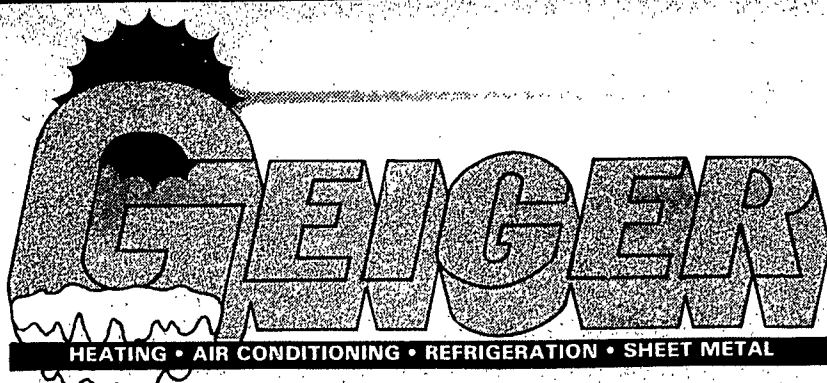

The Halbbrook Award is an outgrowth of House Concurrent Resolution 88 passed by the Mississippi Legislature in 1984.

The resolution, sponsored by Rep. David M. Halbbrook of Belzoni, encourages all institutions of higher learning in the state to work together in establishing an awards program recognizing schools that maintain and achieve high academic standards and programs which ultimately lead to the graduation of student athletes.

MUW is a member of Division II of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

SENSITIVE PARENTING

Praising Yourself Helps In Parenting

By Norine Barnes
Child and Family Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

As mentioned in last week's column, the five keys to a positive parenting self concept are to praise yourself, evaluate realistically, set reasonable limits, encourage your spouse and praise others.

If we feel confident about our abilities in any areas, we are likely to give more time to that endeavor and enjoy it more. That is why it is important that parents have a positive self concept of their parenting abilities.

When you do something well, you need to tell yourself. Tell yourself mentally and then aloud. Tell yourself exactly what you did well and what was good about it. Begin with specific acts and then move on to more general personal qualities.

If you have never tried self talk, it may seem awkward at first but it really does encourage and reinforce behavior. Go one step beyond self talk and tell a close friend or your spouse how you feel. To protect against possible skepticism, stress how you feel rather than how good something is according to an objective standard.

For example, you may tell your spouse, "I feel good about the way I handled Johnny after he spilled the milk. I handed him a sponge and told him to clean up the spill without losing my temper or doing the work myself." Your spouse may disagree with the way you handled the situation, but he or she cannot disagree that you feel good about it.

There may be several positive results when you learn to praise yourself. First, you are able to give yourself rewards when others do not notice or recognize the special things you have done. This happens quite often in most households.

Second, you may begin to realize that you can do many things effectively. This positive parenting self concept not only encourages you, but it can also make you a better parent because you believe in what you are doing.

You and your spouse need to evaluate your parenting realistically. The first principle for realistic evaluation is do not expect yourself to be perfect. The picture of a perfect parent, one who is always kind, patient, loving, intelligent, in control and so on, is impossible to fulfill and it may not be so wonderful anyway.

For example, parents who are always patient may not be preparing their children for a world of impatient people. Failure is hard enough to deal with when it is real, but trying to be perfect is simply inviting unnecessary failure. The important thing is not perfect behavior at any one time but growth toward increased competence.

The second suggestion is compare your behavior as a parent to your own past performance rather than to some other person's parenting behavior. Instead of feeling like a failure because you do not spend three hours a night working or playing with your child like the father next door, praise yourself for spending a half an hour more with your child this week than you did last week.

Setting realistic goals is important and has the following three characteristics:

- They should be goals you set for yourself.
- They are made in relation to your past performance.
- They are goals set to accomplish a certain final product.

Encouraging your spouse and others is closely related to the first key. You can help others feel confident about their parenting skills just as you can help yourself. A spouse who is self-confident will likely be more willing to share equally in child-rearing tasks.

Christmas Campaign underway

Christmas Seals support vital "life and breath-saving" programs in Mississippi, said Mrs. Elda Duke of Waveland, chairman of the Hancock County Lung Chapter.

This year marks the 80th anniversary of Christmas Seals. Since 1907, Christmas Seals have supported year-round services to prevent and control lung diseases. Today, Christmas Seal dollars provide patient assistance, public information, medical education and research.

Lung diseases such as lung cancer, emphysema and chronic bronchitis, are increasing at an alarming rate. The mortality rate from lung diseases is rising faster than any other major disease category in this country. Respiratory distress syndrome (RDS) is the leading killer of newborns in the first month.

Christmas Seal supported programs are also working to help children and adults who suffer with asthma and the list goes on, Duke said.

Christmas Seal programs in Mississippi and the nation are conducted to reverse these alarming facts through service, education/prevention and medical research. There is much to be done so that lungs can be healthy. Many of the chronic and fatal lung diseases are preventable and that makes Christmas Seal work all the more vital.

Your Christmas Seal gift works year-round and is credited to our local lung chapter. For Christmas Seals or information about lung diseases and the work of your Christmas Seal voluntary health agency, contact a chapter volunteer on the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 9865, Jackson, Ms 39206 or phone 362-5453.

Gulf Coast Police Academy graduates first class

LONG BEACH—The Mississippi Gulf Coast has taken a big step toward improved law enforcement with the graduation of its first home-based, police academy basic training class, its director says.

"We as police have got to keep pace with the society we operate in," said Harrison County Sheriff's Department Capt. James D. "Jay"

Moore, director of the recently founded Harrison County Sheriff's Department/USM-Gulf Park Law Enforcement Training Academy, which is located on the University of Southern Mississippi's Long Beach campus. "If we don't, we're left behind, standing in the dust."

"Strong, willing and a good shot doesn't get the job done anymore," he asserted.

In support of law enforcement training, the state Legislature passed a law in 1981 requiring newly hired enforcement officers to attend an accredited training academy before the end of their first year of employment. Until the academy in Long Beach opened, the nearest such academy in the state—except those that train only their own officers—was the state academy in Rankin County.

"The state academy is some 180 miles from here," Moore said. "This academy brings training so much closer to this urban area on the Coast. It's like one big city from Louisiana to Alabama."

"This was the brainchild of Sheriff Larkin Smith of Harrison County. It was his vision and insight to see that we needed something closer to home, and he was also imaginative enough to find the means to do it. This academy came about through him and (USM-Gulf Park Director) Henry D'Aquila."

Harrison County sheriff's personnel teach the training courses in USM's facilities, and cadets earn six credit hours in criminal justice from USM and three credit hours from Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior college.

"Maybe that (academic credit) will be an impetus for (cadets) to get a degree in criminal justice," Moore said.

Moore's goal for the academy is to provide three nine-week basic training courses each year for up to 35 trainees, plus a number of shorter, intensive courses for veteran enforcement officers.

The academy's location on the coast and at USM-Gulf Park's motel-like facilities already has drawn trainees from all over Mississippi, including the extreme northern section, Moore said. He speculates that there eventually will be a national demand for law enforcement workshops at the facility.

"We're only restricted by our own abilities and manpower," Moore said. "These accommodations are just as nice as if they (trainees) were in a hotel, and the classrooms are in the same building. They can stay here for about half of what it costs for a hotel room anywhere on the Coast."

"We feel we can compete with any academy in the United States," he said. "That's our goal. We're going to do more than just grind out basic police schools."

ASK OCHSNER

Q. What can I do to help prevent my annual weight gain during the upcoming holiday season? Do you have any tips to help someone who has little will power? Mrs. FE, Covington, La.

A. Thanksgiving is traditionally the start of the holiday season of food and parties. For some, it means a gain of an extra ten pounds. Debbie Kern, a registered dietitian at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans, says that a lot of people eat because of emotions—either they have negative feelings about the holidays because of stress, or they are excited and happy. It is important, she says, to know why your eating habits may be different during the holiday season.

Choose the foods which are your favorites and allow yourself to eat those foods, but in small portions. The most important thing is to enjoy the holidays and not feel deprived. Before a party, eat something at home so you may not be as tempted to eat the hors d'oeuvres.

Remember to ask yourself why you are going to the party. Make sure you go to socialize with the guests rather than focus on the food table. Avoid the "I'm on a diet" response to the hostess when turning down food. Sometimes a persistent hostess can persuade you to eat it anyway, so just tell yourself, you really don't want it and just say so, or say that you're too full.

Stay away from fried foods and cheeses at office or cocktail parties. Both types of foods have a high fat content, which add calories even if they are eaten in small quantities.

Alcoholic beverages are also high in calories, so when drinking spirits, choose lite beers or dry wines as they have the least amount of calories. Kern suggests alternating the alcoholic drink with a non-alcoholic one, such as fruit juice, club soda or mineral water.

Don't forget that exercising is one way to help burn off excess calories during the holiday glut. Get a big group together after a meal and go for a walk—you may start another tradition.
